This week's quote: Insistence on security is incompatible with the way of the cross. What daring adventures the incarnation and the atonement were! What a breach of convention and decorum that Almighty God should renounce his privileges in order to take human flesh and bear human sin! Jesus had no security except in his Father. So to follow Jesus is always to accept at least a measure of uncertainty, danger and rejection for his sake. --John R.W. Stott

From Pastor Jeff & Carol: Thank you, everyone for the kind notes, cards, gift card, scrapbook, and lovely farewell dinner. But, most of all, thank you for enriching our lives with who you are: your testimonies of transformation that God has so graciously performed in your lives and your present, on-going walk with Jesus. As the writing on the cake so eloquently expressed:
"Until We Meet Again."
